DOCUMENT RESUME

ED 480 412 SO 034 932

TITLE	A Matter of Opinion: Hugh Haynie Cartoons for the Classroom.
INSTITUTION	Kentucky Historical Society, Frankfort.
PUB DATE	2002-00-00
NOTE	33p.; Available online only.
AVAILABLE FROM	Kentucky Historical Society, 100 West Broadway, Frankfort, KY 40601. Tel: 502-564-1792; Fax: 502-564-4701; Web site: http://history.ky.gov/. For full text: http://history.ky.gov/Teachers/ Haynie_teacher_guide.pdf.
PUB TYPE	Guides - Classroom - Learner (051) -- Guides - Classroom - Teacher (052)
EDRS PRICE	Document Not Available From EDRS.
DESCRIPTORS	Curriculum Enrichment; *Exhibits; Instructional Materials; Mass Media Role; Middle Schools; *Newspapers; *Persuasive Discourse; *Press Opinion; Primary Sources; Secondary Education; Social Studies; Thinking Skills; Visual Aids
IDENTIFIERS	Courier Journal (Louisville); Kentucky

ABSTRACT

Editorial cartoons are useful resources for middle school and high school classrooms. They reflect multiple viewpoints about events in history and incorporate visual counterparts to literary elements, such as irony and symbolism. They appeal to visual learners and challenge students to use analytical thinking skills. The cartoons of Hugh Haynie can have special meaning for Kentucky students, since Haynie worked at the "Louisville Courier-Journal" from 1958 to 1995 and created thousands of cartoons on national and state issues. The 10 images in this file are copies of original cartoons in the collection of Judge and Mrs. Hugh Smith Haynie. Along with 57 others from the Haynie collection, they form the centerpiece of a temporary exhibit, "A Matter of Opinion: Hugh Haynie Cartoons," that were on view at the Kentucky Historical Society (Frankfort) from December 14, 2002 to March 30, 2003. (BT)

Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made from the original document.